

To whom it may concern

I am writing to file a complaint regarding the proposed rolling back of the policies characterized as "Net Neutrality." The founders of the Internet hoped to develop and preserve it an open and accessible platform for the unrestricted dissemination of information. The proposed rule modifications change the role of ISPs from entities that profit from the sale of speed and quantity, to entities that sell or restrict based on content and quality. This change plays directly into the indulgence of the profit motive rather than the promotion of a Democratic internet. Please resist the implementation of these changes.

Thank you,

Rob Cohen

Juneau, Alaska